

3 Common Mistakes You Will Make In Resume

1. The highlight of your Job Description
2. Academic Oriented Resume
3. Too Much Personal Information

1. The highlight of your Job Description

One of the most common mistakes is filling up your job description with tons of job responsibilities instead of highlighting your achievement.

Eg. Admin Assistant Jun 2018 - Jul 2020

- Answer and direct phone call dddddd
- Organize and schedule meetings/appointments
- Maintain contact list0s

general job scopes
not outstanding enough

Best Scenario

- Provided support for nearly 50000 admission for visitors
- Coordinated and maintained up to over 100 clients
- Participated in the "SEA" Lead Conference

Provide informative details that include figures and how you have helped the company instead of just generic responsibilities. It can include how you have learned or acquired a new skill and how it helps the company.

2. Academic Oriented

It's okay if you do not have much or any experience yet. There's no right or wrong to it, but a resume focusing too much on academic shows the employer you do not possess any other skills.

Try to add in some other valuable skills that you can learn during your free time.

Eg. Yishun Junior College 2010 - 2013

Yishun Secondary School 2006 - 2010

Yishun Primary School 2000 - 2006

Best Scenario

- Cut down on the number of education background displayed
- You can add up to 2 latest educational background (recommended maximum 2, unless relevant like MBA, Master, etc)
- Can add in additional skills you have learnt (Eg. Life-saving, Excel, Python, Canva, Social Media, UI/UX, Event Planning)

Provide Valuable Skill relevant to your job scope or Interesting Skills to show your personality that may add bonus points during the interview.

Eg. Sketching, express my creativity, and I can contribute to the company creatively!

3. Too Much Personal Information

Giving away too much personal information may lead to resume discrimination or biasness.

Therefore, it's essential to think twice about the information you are giving away. Does it make sense or add any value?

Eg. Rachel Ang (Female) 23 , 10th Feb 1998

Yishun Ring, BLOCK 123 #02-123

INFJ, Aquarius , Blood A - , Single

Best Scenario

- Remove unnecessary information like your age, birthday, personality, blood type, horoscope unless stated by the employer. You have the rights not to give out your personal information.
- You can add in your address and remove the unit number if you need to provide the information to tell your employer that you live near the company.
- Add in essential details like your phone number or email address so that your employer can contact you.

Remember, having a good resume the key to your career

For more professional career tips
for student/job-seekers,
please do follow us @talentlinksg!

Join our Telegram Channel for more career posting/tips!

@JobKakis

if you find this useful,
why not consider sharing
this in your story?

Love more of these posts?
Please support us by:
"Turning on Notifications"
for our post!

If this post relates to you, why not consider saving and read it later?

